

Mary Mazur

Vegas PBS

Mary Mazur is president and general manager of Vegas PBS and the first woman to lead the station in its 53-year history. In her position she oversees Vegas PBS' overall strategic direction and the management of day-to-day affairs across all business units. She also serves as the executive director of the Southern Nevada Public Television (SNPT) Board of Directors. An award-winning television executive, Mazur was previously general manager of Arizona PBS. Under her leadership, Arizona PBS produced 120 hours of news content annually, and launched two new local programs, receiving multiple regional Emmy nominations and awards.

Prior to joining Arizona PBS, Mazur was executive vice president and chief operating officer of the Los Angeles-based KCETLink Media Group. There, she oversaw KCET's move to a new state-of-the-art facility and was a member of the executive team that guided the successful merger between KCET and LinkTV to form the KCETLink Media Group.

Under her direction as chief content officer for KCET, the station received more than 380 awards for programming, including four George Foster Peabody Awards and three Alfred I. duPont-Columbia University Awards. Mazur herself is the recipient of two Peabody Awards, a duPont Award and a regional Emmy Award. A graduate of Santa Clara University, Mazur also has worked in program development for both the NBC and CBS networks.

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

This week winter ended and spring began. For many valid reasons, we often associate winter with coldness and gloom, and that life during this season is dreary and dull.

The early English poet, Anne Bradstreet, said, "If we had no winter, the spring would not be so pleasant."

Spring brings a renewal of life and energy. I find much to celebrate in the greening of grass, the songs of birds, and the first long evenings of spring so full of possibilities.

Against this beautiful backdrop of spring and its symbolism of hope, there is a world of uncertainty, complexity, and confusion. The demands of everyday life—jobs, raising children, dealing with illness and tragedy—can wear us down, like the gloom of winter.

We live in this fantastic system of regeneration and renewal as evidenced by each spring season or even the daily sunrise. Almost everywhere we look in nature, there is some provision for renewal.

As marvelous as this power of renewal is in the world around us, it is even more compelling when we realize that it extends to us as well—individual human beings. As with all other living things on this earth, we are endowed with a promise and capacity for both physical and, more important, spiritual renewal.

Former U.S. Secretary of Agriculture, Ezra Taft Benson said, and I paraphrase, Change works from the inside out. The world (or government) works from the outside in. The world would take people out of the slums. Change truly happens when people take the slums out of their minds, and then they take themselves out of the slums.

Napoleon Hill said something similar, "Man, alone, has the power to transform his thoughts into physical reality. Man, alone, can dream and make his dreams come true."

Rotary provides so many programs and resources to help people change their mental perspectives and positions. These programs and resources include the presentations at luncheons, service opportunities, fellowship with successful members, the ability to contribute to many worthwhile causes, and so many more. Consider our Las Vegas Wheelchair service committee, headed by Jim Hunt and John Williams. In conjunction with The Nevada Wheelchair Foundation, our members have recently personally delivered the 175 new wheelchairs to the homes of local disabled citizens. The impact of these encounters deeply affects all involved. This type of service renews our souls and changes our perspectives.

When I hear the stories of people like John Edmond, last week's speaker, who has given so unselfishly in building Las Vegas and investing in the Historic West Side, it inspires me to make a greater difference here as well.

This spring let's look for opportunities to serve, share, grow and thrive. It's a time for renewal.

The Rotary Club Delivery Team, spearheaded by Jim Hunt and John Williams, also consists of Russ Swain, Brock Frasier, Howie Hopkinson, Bill Houghton, Jarrid Cavanaugh, Bhavan Singh, Paul Maffey, Randy Donald and Will Abbott.

If you know of someone who has a permanent disability, is in need of a new wheelchair and cannot afford one, please reach out to Jim Hunt or John.
